Client Overview

A U.S.-based client sought a reliable partner to extract and organize key information from a large network of contacts housed within a premium professional platform.

Given the scale and sensitivity of the dataset, the client prioritized confidentiality, policy-compliant data handling, and clear, repeatable processes.

They required a solution that would translate disparate contact details into a clean, well-structured Google Sheet suitable for downstream analysis by business and marketing stakeholders.

Objective

To efficiently surface only the most relevant contact attributes from a vast pool, protect sensitive details through strict privacy controls, and deliver a precise, de-duplicated dataset on a defined timeline.

The final output needed to be consistently formatted, easily filterable, and ready for immediate use in segmentation, outreach planning, and strategic decision-making.

Solution

- Used methodical filtering and data extraction to gather relevant information from contacts.
- Entered data into Google Sheets following the client's format and specifications.
- Provided regular updates and clarifications to keep the project on track and promptly addressed any questions.

Value and Impact

Our services delivered the following benefits to our client:

Extracted and organized the data into a structured Google Sheet.

Delivered the project on time, exceeding client expectations for accuracy and confidentiality.

Facilitated the client's next steps by providing the data in an easily accessible format.
